Fund Manager comments

Echiquier World Equity Growth G turned in a positive monthly performance of 4.62% and of 10.87% year-to-date.

Global stock markets continued the "Everything Rally" as investors piled into risk assets. For the month, your fund's positive returns were driven by outsized gains in our technology-related names, like AMAZON, TAIWAN SEMICONDUCTOR and NVIDIA, as strong earnings and even stronger investor enthusiasm pushed stock prices higher. Meanwhile, Mexico was an underperformer for us as evidenced by FEMSA, BANORTE, and WALMEX being at the bottom of the performance charts. We do not see anything beyond some profit-taking behind this lagging performance and we maintain our overweight position on Mexico as we see continued economic momentum in the near future. We did make one change in the fund, returning to a previous holding, AIA. With the stock down 35 % over the three years since we exited the position, we believe the stock to be appropriately priced for its return potential compared to its risk. With no other changes, we are continuing our investment strategy of investing in secular growth companies.
